The pipeline and the damage done

This note's for you, but the oil isn't. Neil Young's anti-oilsands tour rolls into town, and the Canadian rocker hasn't softened his tune

Quoted

"It is like a war zone, a disaster area from war, what's happened up there."

Neil Young, who says Alberta will "look like the moon" if oilsands development continues

Neil Young took aim at the proposed Keystone XL pipeline Thursday on his concert tour condemning the Alberta oilsands, while energy executives, politicians and even a fellow musician shot back that he is irresponsible and uninformed.

Young told a news conference ahead of his Winnipeg concert that the TransCanada pipeline, which would carry oilsands bitumen from Alberta to Texas, makes no sense since the oil would be sent to China — a country he called one of the dirtiest on Earth.

"People don't understand this oil is not for Canada," Young said. "A couple of months ago, Beijing had 30 times the World Health Organization's approved level of pollutants and dangerous substances in the air — 30 times that — and we're sending them oil. I don't feel really good about that."

TransCanada quickly replied that the pipeline would be a supply line for U.S. refineries and not an export pipeline.

"It's unfortunate that people like Mr. Young want to mislead people about where Canadian oil goes and the benefits it creates," TransCanada spokesman Shawn Howard said in an emailed statement.

Young is on a four-city Canadian tour to support the Athabasca Chipewyan First Nation that lives downstream from the oilsands. The band has filed a lawsuit to try to protect its traditional territory from further industrialization.

Since he kicked off the tour in Toronto on Sunday, Young has traded shots with the Prime Minister's Office and oil executives who say Young doesn't understand the oilsands or their economic benefit.

Even fellow Canadian musician Jim Cuddy from Blue Rodeo called Young's comparison of the oilsands with Hiroshima extreme, saying Young is "grossly exaggerating."

However, Cuddy, who was to play a concert in Fort McMurray on Thursday night, suggested Young has triggered a national discussion about the oilsands that is long overdue.

"You have to appreciate that Neil, in his own extreme, crazy way has begun a dialogue that we have to have in this country." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg theatre students take on all of Shakespeare

The Bard. Comedy condenses all of the playwright's works into 75 minutes

The work of Shakespeare can be a challenge for even the most accomplished of actors, but that doesn't seem to be a concern for a group of aspiring young actors who are tackling not one but all 37 of the Bard's plays at once.

After months of rehearsing, eight teenaged actors from the Prairie Theatre Exchange (PTE) School's Young Company are performing The Complete Works of William Shakespeare (Abridged) this weekend.

"It's a great piece for them because they're so new to the theatre it gives them the chance to try out so many different things," explained director Erin McGrath. "It's not like I'm casting them in one character — every single one of them plays as many different characters as you can imagine.

"It really just asks them to be brave, which is a really important thing in theatre."

The show, written by Adam Long, Daniel Singer, and Jess Winfield, condenses all of Shakespeare's work into 75 minutes, which McGrath said results in one very funny play.

"It's about a group of players … as they attempt a feat that they think has happened before, and that is to perform all of Shakespeare's shows as quickly as they can," she explained. SHANE GIBSON/METRO

Showtimes

- The Complete Works of Shakespeare (Abridged) runs this weekend at the Prairie Theatre Exchange on the 3rd floor of Portage Place. Shows go Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.
- Tickets for the show are $12 or $6 for students and are available at the door or by calling PTE Box Office at 204-942-5483.

Money raised for Typhoon Haiyan relief still hasn't left Winnipeg

Some members of Winnipeg's Filipino community are upset that relief money raised for victims of Typhoon Haiyan still hasn't been sent to the Philippines.

More than $70,000 was raised shortly after the typhoon struck last November, but it still hasn't been forwarded by the Philippine Canadian Centre of Manitoba.

President Lito Taruc says they're still waiting for matching funds from the federal government. Ron Cantiveros of the Filipino Journal says it's a concern to those who donated to find out the money is still sitting in Winnipeg.

The Mennonite Central Committee says as soon as disaster strikes, money must be sent immediately.

Spokesman Ron Janzen says rapid response is key when people are lacking basic essentials such as food, water and health hygiene.

Taruc says he inherited many problems when he became president of the Philippine Canadian Centre of Manitoba but pleaded with the community to be patient with the organization.

Nearly 30,000 in 6 weeks. Slow down, begs MPI in wake of winter collisions

Manitoba Public Insurance says the province has seen almost 30,000 crashes since the beginning of December.

And thousands of those collisions are due to drivers going too fast for the rutted, icy roads.

"Driving is challenging under the best of road and weather conditions," said MPI spokesperson MaryAnn Kempe.

"Winter weather conditions — extreme cold, heavy snow, slush, freezing rain — can change dramatically during a very short period of time. Drivers need to adjust just as quickly. By doing so, a collision could be avoided."

MPI has launched an awareness campaign aimed at getting drivers to slow down on icy roads in the hope that drivers pay heed. METRO

Mother and child OK after stabbing and carjacking

A Winnipeg woman and her child weren't seriously hurt after a thief stabbed her and stole her vehicle Wednesday.

Winnipeg police said the woman, 30, went out to her car on Marbury Road at about 6 a.m. and placed her six-year-old in the back seat. While she was clearing snow off her car, a man approached and demanded her keys.

The woman refused, so the man whipped out a knife and stabbed her leg before taking her keys. The woman managed to get her child out of the back seat before the thug drove off with her car.

The woman was not seriously injured. Police are looking for a man of unknown race, about 40, tall and skinny with a small moustache.

The car is a green, 1998 Honda Accord, with the licence plate GMX 393. METRO

Never tell me the odds — agency quits casino information booths

The Addictions Foundation of Manitoba will no longer provide information about gambling odds at Winnipeg's two casinos.

Chief executive officer Yvonne Block says the Crown agency is ending its role because it wants to focus resources on addictions programs and other core services.

The Responsible Gaming Information Centres explain the odds in gambling and the so-called house advantage.

The centres also refer concerned people to gambling-support agencies.

Replacement

"Because probably 80 per cent of the service is related to providing education and interacting with customers — providing information — it doesn't necessarily have to be an addictions agency."

Manitoba Liquor and Lotteries spokeswoman Bev Mehmel

Manitoba Liquor and Lotteries is looking for another agency to run the centres.

Spokeswoman Bev Mehmel says the new provider may not necessarily be an addictions treatment group.

Mehmel pointed to New Brunswick, where services are provided by Shepell FGI, a private company that operates employee-assistance programs.

Mehmel also said a new provider may offer extended hours of service, running seven days a week instead of the current six. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hollande's alleged lover sues magazine

French actress Julie Gayet
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

The actress suspected of having an affair with French President Francois Hollande has filed a lawsuit against a gossip magazine for alleged invasion of privacy over its report.

A representative of Closer magazine says the publication received legal documents Thursday from Julie Gayet and her lawyers. The lawsuit seeks 54,000 euros (about $80,000) in damages and other fees, plus the publication of a summary of any judicial ruling on its front page.

Rumours have long circulated that the French president might have a lover. Closer published images Friday showing his bodyguard and a helmeted man it says is Hollande visiting what it says is Gayet's apartment.

Hollande has been living with Valerie Trierweiler, a journalist, since he split with the mother of his four children in 2007.

Trierweiler is viewed as the reason that Hollande split from longtime partner Segolene Royal. The couple separated just after Royal lost her bid for the presidency in 2007, but it later emerged Hollande had been having an affair with Trierweiler during the campaign. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fifty-year-old Karel Slinger, participant in a pilot project for alcoholics that offers to fund their drinking rather than try to cure them, pauses for beer at the clubhouse in Amsterdam, Wednesday. PETER DEJONG/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Problem with alcoholics? Get them to work for beer

Tough job. Participants paid in beer for light work collecting litter and eating a meal

The problem

For years, around 50 rowdy, aging alcoholics had plagued a park in east Amsterdam, annoying other park-goers with noise, litter and occasional harassment.

- The city had tried many hard-handed solutions, spending 1 million euros (about $1.5 million) a year on prevention, treatment and policing programs to deal with the problem, but nobody was satisfied.

The men streaming in and out of a small clubhouse in east Amsterdam could almost be construction workers at the end of a hard day, cracking jokes as they down a few Heinekens, waiting for their paycheques. But it's only noon, the men are alcoholics and the beers are the paycheque.

In a pilot project that has drawn attention in the Netherlands and around the world, the city has teamed up with a charity organization in hopes of improving the neighbourhood and possibly improving life for the alcoholics. Not by trying to get them to stop drinking, but instead by offering to fund their habit outright.

The men — two groups of 10 — must show up at 9 a.m., three days a week. They start off with two beers, work a morning shift, eat lunch, get two more beers, and then do an afternoon shift before closing out with their last beer. Sometimes there's a bonus beer. Total daily pay package: 19 euros (about $28), in beer, tobacco, a meal, and 10 euros cash.

Gerrie Holterman, leader of the small non-profit Rainbow Group Foundation that runs the program, conceded there has only been one individual so far who has moved from the program to regular life. Numerous participants have found the rules too demanding and dropped out. But she said nuisance in the park has been reduced, neighbours are happy and there's a waiting list of candidates who want to participate.

Nunavut's chief coroner is calling a special inquiry in response to a record number of suicides in the territory last year.

Trudeau admits $840 in bad expense claims

Administrative errors?
Expenses were incurred while Liberal leader was working as paid public speaker; he says money has been fully repaid

In the midst of the Senate expenses scandal, Justin Trudeau has fessed up to some expense claim transgressions of his own.

The Liberal leader disclosed Thursday that he wrongly claimed $840 in MP travel and living expenses incurred while he was actually moonlighting as a paid public speaker.

He called them administrative errors and said he fully repaid the money as soon as he was made aware of the problem.

Conservative and NDP rivals pounced on the admission, accusing Trudeau of being little better than the senators who are under RCMP investigation for making allegedly fraudulent expense claims.

But Trudeau insisted his public disclosure and swift action to remedy the mistake shows he's setting a new standard of transparency.

"I am now explaining that to Canadians because one of the most important things about my approach in politics has been creating a level of accountability, of transparency, of openness, of honesty that means admitting when mistakes were made, taking responsibility for them and fixing them in an open manner that hopefully will continue to restore Canadians' trust in our political system," he said during an appearance with a provincial Liberal byelection candidate in Thornhill, Ont.

Vatican grilled by UN on child sex-abuse scandal

'The Holy See gets it'. Church's former sex crimes prosecutor says there are 'things that need to be done differently'

Roman Catholic official Monsignor Charles Scicluna waits Thursday in Geneva for the start of questioning at the UN. MARTIAL TREZZINI/KEYSTONE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Vatican came under blistering criticism from a UN committee Thursday for its handling of the global priest sex-abuse scandal, facing its most intense public grilling to date over allegations that it protected pedophile priests at the expense of victims.

The Vatican insisted it had little jurisdiction to sanction pedophile priests around the globe, saying it was for local law enforcement to do so. But officials conceded that more needs to be done and promised to build on progress already made to become a model for others, given the scale of the problem and the role the Holy See plays in the international community.

"The Holy See gets it," Monsignor Charles Scicluna, the Vatican's former sex crimes prosecutor, told the committee. "There are certain things that need to be done differently." He was responding to the UN committee over the Holy See's failure to abide by terms of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Live webcam child-abuse ring busted

Child-abuse investigators in the U.S., Britain and Australia have dismantled an organized crime group that streamed live webcam footage of child sexual abuse from the Philippines for paying viewers around the world.

An international investigation broke up the ring, which abused impoverished children as young as six, Britain's National Crime Agency said. Authorities made 29 arrests, including 11 people in the Philippines who had facilitated the crime, including members of the children's families.

Police describe the use of webcams to stream live child abuse — especially from developing countries — as a "significant and emerging threat."

The investigation began in 2012 after a routine police visit to a registered sex offender in Britain. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rape suspects identified: Cops

Indian police said Thursday that they were closing in on five homeless men in the gang rape of a 51-year-old Danish tourist in New Delhi, a case that highlights the plague of sexual violence in the country and threatens to tarnish its tourism industry.

Three other suspects were earlier picked up and accused of taking part in Tuesday's attack, which lasted nearly three hours and happened near Connaught Place, a popular shopping area in the heart of New Delhi, police spokesman Rajan Bhagat said.

"We have identified the culprits. All of them are vagabonds," a police official said

Tourism figures fell significantly in the three months following the 2012 fatal gang rape of a young Indian woman — a case that caused public outrage — with visits by women dropping 35 per cent, according to the Associated Chambers of Commerce and Industry of India.

Violence continues

Violence against women in India has caused increasing alarm since the fatal gang rape of a 23-year-old Indian physiotherapy student in New Delhi in December 2012.

- Several foreign tourists also have been targeted in attacks that have received international attention, although Indian women are assaulted far more frequently.

Police said the Danish tourist was raped at knifepoint Tuesday after she approached a group of men for directions back to her hotel. Instead of helping her, the men lured her to a secluded spot and raped her repeatedly, according to police.

Bayaz, 50, is the first woman to be promoted to run an entire district — the highest front-line appointment for an Afghan policewoman. With just two days on the job, she said she feels up to the challenge despite the threat, as policewomen are among the Taliban's top targets.

"I work day and night," she said as she walked through a money exchange bazaar that lies at the heart of Kabul's District 1. "I am ready to serve; I am not scared, nor am I afraid."

In the past seven months, several prominent women have been attacked, including two Afghan police officers who were killed in the south, and an Afghan senator who was wounded in an ambush. Another female parliamentarian was kidnapped by the Taliban and later released in a prisoner exchange. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Court agrees to hear right-to-die appeal

Assisted suicide. Proponents argue the law is outdated and society's view of the issue has changed

The Supreme Court of Canada has agreed to review the country's assisted-suicide laws more than two decades after it rejected doctor-assisted dying for people who are terminally ill.

The high court announced Thursday it will hear an appeal in a case that briefly overturned the ban on assisted suicide and offered a B.C. woman a constitutional exemption to get help in ending her life.

The B.C. Civil Liberties Association, which has argued on behalf of several ill people who said they wanted to die with dignity, hailed the decision.

In 2012, Justice Lynn Smith of the B.C. Supreme Court ruled the existing law was unconstitutional but delayed her ruling for a year to allow the federal government to rewrite the statute.

Smith also granted Gloria Taylor an exemption that would have allowed her to seek an assisted death. Taylor was terminally ill with ALS, also known as Lou Gehrig's disease.

Arguing for the right to die with dignity

"Today we are savouring the knowledge that seriously ill Canadians are going to have the opportunity to make their plea to the court."

Lawyer Grace Pastine, who has argued Kay Carter's case for the B.C. Civil Liberties Association

The federal government appealed the B.C. Supreme Court decision, and the B.C. Court of Appeal overturned the ruling last October, concluding that the 1993 case that upheld the law was binding and that the lower court didn't have the ability to overturn the decision.

Taylor didn't use the constitutional exemption. She died of an infection in October 2012.

But the family of another woman, 89-year-old Kay Carter who went to Switzerland in January 2010 to end her life, is continuing the court fight with the help of the British Columbia Civil Liberties Association.

Animal cruelty. Society investigating after cat muzzled, starved to death

The Calgary Humane Society is investigating after a cat was found muzzled and starved to death Thursday just metres from where a dog was found dead in much the same manner.

The society said it found an emaciated female husky on Jan. 9 with tape over its muzzle, just like the cat.

The dog investigation prompted a local veterinary company to offer up a $5,000 reward for information leading to conviction in the case.

"Everybody who has a pet in Calgary is now at risk — that's the scary part," said Greg Hasbritt, president of Vets To Go, which is offering the reward.

Brad Nichols, the humane society's manager of cruelty investigations, said the penalties for such an act, if deemed intentional, could include counts of animal neglect and cruelty and carry a sentence of up to five years in prison and a maximum $20,000 fine.

Canadians face trafficking charges in Philippines

Arrested Canadian nationals James Clayton Riach, right, and Ali Memar Mortazavi Shirazi wait for their inquest proceeding at the Department of Justice in Manila, Philippines, on Thursday. The Anti-Organized and Transnational Crime Division of the National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) said four Canadians, including Riach and Shirazi, were arrested Wednesday for allegedly trafficking illegal drugs from Mexico. The suspects are allegedly linked to a Mexican cartel and undercutting Chinese traffickers dominating the local market, which could trigger a drug war, NBI said. BULLIT MARQUEZ/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DANIEL EK

The co-founder and CEO of Spotify, the world's most talked-about music streaming service, puts the listener at the centre of an ever-evolving music industry.

YOU CAN BE THE KINGMAKER

Record labels are still not big fans of Spotify. Do you have sympathy for them?

I don't think there's a single record label that has a problem with us. They've worked with us for four to five years now, and I'm sure they wouldn't partner with us if they didn't like what we do. Right now we're their second-largest revenue generator after iTunes.

YouTube content boss Robert Kyncl's vision of his site is a talent factory for ordinary people. Do you want Spotify to go in the same direction?

We don't want to become creators of music. Record labels are great partners, and by the way, artists can also upload music to Spotify on their own. What we're focusing on is getting more music uploaded so that more people can enjoy it.

Passionate exec

"I love music, and that's the reason I started Spotify."

One of your staff members put an unknown singer named Lorde on Spotify's playlist, turning her an instant star. Do you want to formalize this process of Spotify as a kingmaker?

Yes, we want to help artists, but we don't want to be kingmakers. What we're about is democratizing the music industry so that your friends are your kingmakers.

Where will the money come from (to run Spotify)? At the end of the day, all these users just want things for free...

I think customers will pay for quality. People are willing to pay more for an Apple product because they perceive it as being higher quality. And look at news media. You can get news for free, but even so I subscribe to the Wall Street Journal because they provide depth and analysis that I think it's worth paying for. METRO

In NYC. The Super Bowl is about throwing the pigskin and pigging out

The Super Bowl won't touch down in New Jersey until next month, but the New York restaurant scene already is rolling out the turf carpet.

The city with the endless appetite for great food is going all out for the big game, mounting a culinary spectacle in keeping with the over-the-top nature of the event.

Exhibit A — The 50 Yard Lounge. At the intersection of Madison Square Garden and Penn Station, the 50 Yard Lounge will offer what amounts to a five-day food and wine festival with athletes. Heated roof decks, tented plazas and restaurants will showcase themed menus from top New York chefs while current and former NFL players mingle with diners.

In some of the many chef-and-athlete demonstrations, Michelin-starred chef Michael White will teach Football Hall of Famer Cris Carter to make pasta. And celebrity butcher Pat LaFrieda will show three-time Super Bowl champion Matt Light how to break down meat.

Detroit bankruptcy judge rejects deal with bank, again

A judge overseeing Detroit's bankruptcy again rejected a deal Thursday to end a financial agreement with major banks, dealing a blow to officials who want to put the issue behind them as they work on a broader plan to get the city out of Chapter 9 in the largest public filing in U.S. history.

The judge turned down a $169 million US compromise. He had rejected a $230 million US deal in December. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE METRO LIST

Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca

It's a brand new year. But for those of you who think we're getting off to a fresh start, a clean slate and all that, this week's Metro List should disabuse you of that notion. Talk about déjà vu all over again:

1 Meryl Streep gets nominated for an Oscar. Get out! It makes the 18th time the World's Greatest Actor (registered trademark) is nominated for an acting Academy Award. They should retire her category or something. Sorry, no more best actress category. It's now the Meryl Streep wannabe category. And the winner is ... Jennifer Lawrence, who's already been nominated three times, has one Oscar and is still only 23.

2 Overweight politician vows to stick it to his enemies. No, it's not Rob Ford, but New Jersey Governor Chris Christie doing his best Rob Ford imitation, denying he had anything to do with shutting down traffic on a busy commuter bridge out of spite, and complaining that his enemies are on a political vendetta. Speaking of political, Christie's final Imitation of Ford is to stand in the smoking crater of his career and believe he can get his ample bottom elected something other than dog catcher.

3 French president has affair. Francoise Hollande is having an affair with actress Julie Gayet. The only difference between this affair and those of former presidents such as Nicolas Sarkozy (who left his wife for supermodel Carla Bruni) François Mitterrand (who kept a second family), and Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, etc. is, er, nothing. Power is an aphrodisiac that transforms even the least favoured chef d'État. Oo-la-la. I've always wanted to write that.

4 Rock star sticks his nose into Canadian environmental controversy. Sir Paul McCartney took a moment with the baby seals in Newfoundland, posing with several admiring mammals on a convenient ice floe. Now Neil Young has decided to follow Macca's lead and has inserted himself into the national debate over the oilsands, the Keystone Gateway pipeline, and whatever. This is really nothing new for the iconic rock star, who's been protesting since he first picked up his guitar. Remember, he's the guy who inspired Sweet Home Alabama. Maybe somebody will write a rockin' song defending the oilsands. Maybe not.

5 Royal couple visits Canada. Charles and Camilla, that is. Like relatives who just can't stay away, The Prince of Wales and his Duchess will enjoy the nation's hospitality for four (more) days in May, visiting New Brunswick, Ontario and Saskatchewan, you lucky guys. They were just here in 2012. Governor General David Johnston made the announcement, adding, by way of discreet understatement, "Sharon and I are looking forward to seeing them once again, as they spend some time here in Canada." It is Charles' 17th visit, Camilla's third, so she has a lot of catching up to do.

Portraits revived from 'specimens'

An artist has created collaged replicas of famous paintings using hundreds of tiny photographs, gelatin capsules, vials, sequins and insect pins.

Michael Mapes, from New York state, painstakingly put together the "artificial specimens" to reimagine works by Dutch masters Rembrandt and Nicolaes Eliasz Pickenoy. METRO

By collecting and compartmentalizing dissected photos and contrived specimens, Mapes toys with the notion of a "pseudoscientific" approach to creating art.

Ads: Unlike Twitter, FB spokespeople say trending topics can't be sponsored or promoted... for now.

One liners: Trending topics include a one-liner about the topic, giving a bit more context than the one-word trends of Twitter.

Private vs. public: While most people's Twitter feeds are public, FB users seem to keep their profiles on strict lockdown, which gives Twitter a leg up in figuring out what you're actually into. This means trends might be more closely linked to celebs and news outlets' likes and dislikes.

RE: Citizenship Changes Emphasize 'Speak White Ideology,' Report Finds, published online January 16

Having been through the citizenship process recently, I have to disagree with most of this think tank's findings.

The claim that applicants are tested on "economic self-sufficiency" is completely false. Moreover, barriers to citizenship are low, with only 3.6 per cent of citizenship applicants ultimately rejected. The most common reason for rejecting applicants is that they didn't live in Canada for the required three years.

The history section includes a lot about the waves of immigration that have shaped Canada, emphasizing the positive contribution of multiculturalism, pluralism, diversity and mutual respect. The overwhelming majority of applicants in my test session were non-white, and that seems to be quite normal.

The only reasonable point that the think tank makes relates to the processing delays. My application took 27 months, almost all of which involved my case file sitting in a pile waiting for someone to look at it. Daniel Hassett, posted to metronews.ca

Synopsis

Ex-Marine Jack Ryan is back on screen after a 12-year break, but this time he looks like Captain Kirk. As played by Chris Pine (taking over from Alec Baldwin, Harrison Ford and Ben Affleck), CIA field agent Ryan discovers evidence of an upcoming terrorist attack. Leaving his suspicious girlfriend (Kiera Knightley) behind, he is sent to Moscow to continue the investigation by Intelligence boss Agent Harper (Kevin Costner). Dodging bullets and bad guys, he encounters Viktor Cherevin (Kenneth Branagh), an evil businessman with a plot to destabilize the global economy. Steve Gow sits in for Mark Breslin this week.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Pretty dry for a film spy

Jack Ryan: Shadow Recruit. Chris Pine and a dull dialogue sink this Jack Ryan installment

Richard: Steve, Shadow Recruit is nothing fancy… and it's also nothing Clancy. As the first of the Ryan movies not based on a Tom Clancy novel, it feels quite generic. There is the usual intrigue and a couple of tense scenes, but what the movie doesn't have is the ear for dialogue of the other Ryan films. When you have a senior CIA agent muttering the line, "This is geopolitics, not couple's therapy," it's hard to know whether this is a satire of spy films or just badly written.

Steve: It certainly wasn't inspired writing, that's for sure. I get the feeling the genesis of this film came straight from a money-angling producer who somehow decided reviving a 12-year-old movie character like Jack Ryan would make better business sense than creative endeavour. The problem is, even if you look at the previous incarnations of the CIA operative — he's pretty indistinct. He's no James Bond. And vanilla Chris Pine doesn't add much to that blandness.

RC: True, but I really think that this is a case of a director with no affinity for the material. It's almost as if the movie was pieced together by people who had seen a lot of spy movies, but didn't really understand them. Add to that action scenes so frenetically edited it's often hard to see who is punching who through the flashes of light on the screen. A little clarity in those sequences would have gone a long way to make up for the ridiculous dialogue and underdeveloped characters.

SG: Absolutely. I had a hard time making sense of the action sequences since they were filmed with shaky handheld cameras in what seemed to be extreme close-up. Perhaps filmmaker Kenneth Branagh was focusing less on direction and more on playing the Russian antagonist in the film, which he does effectively enough in spite of the formulaic dialogue. Keira Knightly too, in the pretty unremarkable role of Ryan's unwitting operative wife, is fine — although I'm not sure what her attraction to the part was.

RC: Knightley was fine, but I thought Branagh played Cherevin with all the nuance of a Bond villain. He's ruthless, flamboyantly accented and super smart. Smart enough to bring down the global economy but not smart enough, apparently, to see through Chris Pine's terrible drunk act near the climax of the film.

Steve: True enough. And that probably exemplifies this film's biggest flaw. As much as the action is set at the pace of an overcaffeinated ferret, this thriller is pretty much boilerplate material with any subtle intricacies simplified for the sake of the neatly-capped plot. In the end, it's a pretty plain spy flick.

Academy Awards. American Hustle, Gravity get most nom love from Oscar

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

The Academy announced its nominations for the 2014 Oscars Thursday morning, with David O. Russell's American Hustle and Alfonso Cuarón's Gravity tying for the most nominations, earning 10 each, while Steve McQueen's 12 Years a Slave was right behind with nine. It's an incredibly crowded year, with nine films up for best picture, so voting for the final awards could go almost anyway, but we're predicting that the Hollywood Foreign Press got things almost exactly right with their major winners at the Golden Globes. We'll find out for sure on March 2.

Metro's predictions

Best picture: 12 Years a Slave

Best actor: Matthew McConaughey, Dallas Buyers Club

Best actress: Cate Blanchett, Blue Jasmine

Best supporting actor: Jared Leto, Dallas Buyers Club

Best supporting actress: Lupita Nyong'o, 12 Years a Slave

Best director: Alfonso Cuarón, Gravity

Biggest winners

American Hustle has the biggest profile in the most major categories, making it the best contender for a sweep — though that seems incredibly unlikely this year. And Judi Dench has to be pleased to make it into the Best Actress race for underdog Philomena.

Biggest losers

Certain films didn't seem to connect at all with the Academy, the most surprising being the Coen Brothers' Inside Llewyn Davis, which only earned two nods, for cinematography and sound mixing. And Saving Mr. Banks, which had been considered a contender for nominations at least for Emma Thompson and Tom Hanks, will have to make due with a best original score nod. But the biggest snub seems to be for Lee Daniels' The Butler, which wasn't nominated for a single award. Sorry, Oprah.

Biggest surprises

It's definitely a treat to see Spike Jonze's quiet and fantastic Her squeeze its way into the best picture race, as well as Philomena, though neither film has that great a chance of winning the top prize. Hopefully the Academy, like the HFPA earlier this week, will award Jonze for best original screenplay as a consolation. And not seeing Academy favorite Tom Hanks nominated for anything despite well-received roles in Captain Phillips and Saving Mr. Banks is certainly a surprise, though apparently the Academy needed to make room for Jonah Hill, whom they seem to really like.

Comedy

Ride Along

Director. Tim Story

Stars. Ice Cube, Kevin Hart

Short, screechy Ben (Hart) wants to marry the sister of tough, lone-wolf police officer, James (Ice Cube). But to do so, he has to prove himself to James by riding along with him on the job. Mild amusement ensues while Ben tries to win some respect and help bag a bad guy. There's nothing particularly new, exciting or even that funny about Ride Along — and a film this formulaic really can't afford to be this dull.

REGAN REID

Family/Animated

The Nut Job

Director. Peter Lepeniotis

Stars. Will Arnett, Katherine Heigl

Paralleling the frenetic pace of its rodent star, The Nut Job certainly packs a lot of energy — even if the tale's slightly familiar. Based on his own short feature, Peter Lepeniotis's The Nut Job expands the story of a self-indulgent squirrel plotting the heist of a nut shop that hides its own conniving criminals. The comedy's cuddly forest creatures should surely win over the youngsters but an overactive storyline laced with predictable puns make The Nut Job mostly forgettable.

STEVE GOW

Drama

Wadjda

Director. Haifaa Al-Mansour

Stars. Waad Mohammed, Reem Abdullah

Wadjda is a mischievous 10 year-old with her heart set on a green bicycle. She enrolls in a Koran recitation competition with an eye to using the prize money to fund her dream. Shot entirely in Saudi Arabia, Wadjda explores the hypocrisies at the heart of the country's attitudes towards women. Despite her age, Wadjda (Waad Mohammed) sees the emptiness in the hearts of the adults tasked with keeping her straight. They maintain that a pious life — one that doesn't include bikes — is the only path to happiness. IAN GORMELY

Big names, small projects

Sundance kickoff. Robert Redford's indie love-in attracts actors looking to flex their thespian chops

As Kristen Stewart, Elisabeth Moss and Joseph Gordon-Levitt have learned, the Sundance Film Festival in the mountains of Utah is the ideal destination to get away from it all and work on that career shift.

Robert Redford's two-week celebration of independent cinema kicked off its 30th year Thursday in Park City, Utah, with a lineup that includes 117 feature films. One of them is Camp X-Ray, in which Stewart plays against type as a Guantanamo Bay guard who befriends a prisoner.

Stewart, who was last at the festival in 2010 when she was promoting her role as Joan Jett in The Runaways, says Camp X-Ray was one of the rare scripts she'd read that made her want to work again after her two-year acting hiatus following the Twilight movies.

"At my age it's difficult to find stuff that isn't completely derivative," said the 23-year-old in a recent interview. "Most parts are imitating something else that was popular."

With Snow White and the Huntsman 2 coming in 2015, Stewart's big-budget franchise days are far from over. "But it's a little bit more difficult to create the environment that I thrive in on a bigger movie," she explains.

"I prefer doing smaller ones. They're quicker. I like intensive things and then I like to walk away."

For Gordon-Levitt, persistence has paid off. This will be his seventh consecutive year at Sundance and he'll be presenting the first three episodes of HitRecord on TV. It's the cable TV extension (airing on the Pivot network) of his HitRecord.org, a website dedicated to giving artists a platform to share and develop their work.

"HitRecord started at Sundance in 2005 in a way," says Gordon-Levitt. "But it was more of an informal hobby." Then, in 2010, it was launched at Sundance as an official production company.

Gordon-Levitt says the fest "feels like a home away from home," which made it the perfect place last year to debut his first feature film, the porn addiction tale Don Jon.

How I Met Your Mother finale will 'tie it all together' for fans

Ending in March. Cast of long-running sitcom is already emotional — and eyeing up props to take as souvenirs

Cristin Milioti was the first to tear up. "I don't know why I'm crying, I have no right to cry," she said when asked about the relationships she had developed on How I Met Your Mother as the newest cast member.

"These guys had been together for nine years, so it was very scary about how I would be accepted, but it couldn't have been more wonderful."

Milioti was cast as the mother at the end of season eight. But her tenure will end in weeks. In its ninth and final season, How I Met Your Mother airs its grand finale March 31.

And there will be plenty more tears among cast and crew as the long-running show winds down.

"It's been the nicest place to come for nine years," said Jason Segel (Marshall Eriksen), sitting on the set that serves as the living room for the apartment he shares with wife Lily (Alyson Hannigan).

"This is the longest time I've spent with people outside my own family. You watch people go through some serious life stuff."

Said co-creator Craig Thomas: "It's surreal that the end is coming. I think it's only really going to hit us when it's really over."

The show premiered on CBS in 2005, detailing the lives of friends in Manhattan.

It revolves around Ted Mosby (played by Josh Radnor) narrating to his children through a series of flashbacks about how he met their mother.

Co-creator Carter Bays says the final episodes will "tie it all together in a package" for fans.

"We will also fill in the eight years in the life of the mother. There are a lot of fun intersections in her life and our gang, so we'll see more of her and learn more about her," said Thomas.

Neil Patrick Harris (Barney Stinson) says the ending is "More complicated than you would assume."

Meanwhile, the toughest battle seems to be who claims dibs on the props when the show wraps up.

"It's been a touchy subject. (Co-creator) Carter is taking everything," said Hannigan. "He's like taking an entire wall of the set."

Bays said he didn't think he'd be emotional about the props. But with the show winding down, he's been getting needy.

"You say you don't need it. And then you start thinking you do need some stuff," said Bays.

With the end in sight, the show has already hit some speed bumps, most recently with an episode that featured a homage to kung fu movies where Segel's character Marshall travels to China to meet with three characters out of a kung fu movie played by Radnor, Cobie Smulders (Robin Scherbatsky) and Hannigan.

The cast members' accents and makeup sparked a firestorm on Twitter for what some perceived as racist overtones. Bays and Thomas responded with an apology, saying: "We're deeply sorry, and we're grateful to everyone who spoke up to make us aware of it. We try to make a show that's universal, that anyone can watch and enjoy. We fell short of that this week and feel terrible about it. To everyone we offended, I hope we can regain your friendship and end this series on a note of goodwill."

Solving fairy tale murders may not seem like serious business, but set against the gritty streets of New York where Prince Charming and company have sacrificed their Ever After lives for ones of dysfunction and mistrust, it gets real. As Bad Wolf detective Bigby, your decisions and behaviour affect others with the episodic story and evidence changing noticeably in response. You interrogate foul-mouthed frogs, have throw-down fights with rage-aholics, and commiserate with Snow White. Online spinoff

CW resurrects popular Veronica Mars series

The CW says it's developing an online spinoff of the Veronica Mars series.

Series creator Rob Thomas has agreed to do the digital version, CW president Mark Pedowitz told a meeting of the Television Critics Association this week.

The decision to proceed with the spinoff was made Tuesday and details have yet to be worked out, including the cast and characters, the CW said.

Veronica Mars, which was cancelled in 2007 after three seasons, is enjoying a resurgence. A film based on the show about a crime-solving teen, played by Kristen Bell, was funded by the crowd-funding site Kickstarter. The movie is due out in March.

A debut date for the online spinoff was not announced.

Breaking the silence of the drug science

Meth recipe. You can't make Walter's famous 99 per cent pure just based on what's shown onscreen — still, one chemist is impressed

SCOTT FOX
Metro World News

If you're still missing out on the hit TV series Breaking Bad, why not pay your own tribute by manufacturing some 99 per cent pure using the onscreen recipes? Not so fast, says electrochemist Dr. Falk Harnisch of the Helmholtz Centre for Environmental Research in Germany, who has examined the chemistry used by Walt, Jesse et al.

What is the most impressive science on the show?

In general, the chemistry is depicted very well and close to reality in Breaking Bad. This is in clear contrast to other shows like, for example, CSI. My favourite, as an electrochemist, is the makeshift battery Walter builds in the desert to restart the engine of the RV.

What efforts have been made on the show to avoid inspiring drug dealers?

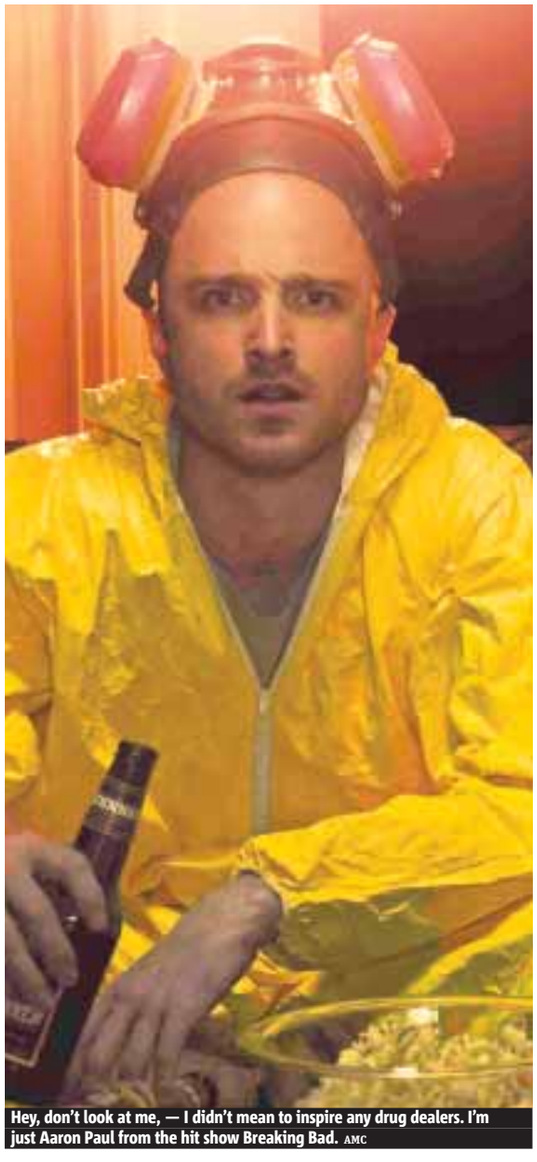
The best example is that the crystal synthesis is shown very realistically, but important details are not discussed. It is not entirely clear which sources Jesse gets certain ingredients for the new synthesis from (e.g. thorium oxide catalyst). Mercury aluminium amalgam can be used as a catalyst for the reduction, as discussed by Walter and Jesse, but only shows how aluminium granulate is added to the reactor. Further the synthesis is shown in a visually appealing manner, but details like temperature-time regimes, concentrations, and stirring are not considered. Yet all these details are essential for a successful synthesis.

What can the show's impact be for chemistry and science?

I strongly hope that the show will provide the public a more realistic picture on what chemistry can do and how chemists work. Maybe it will also inspire young people in choosing chemistry and other natural sciences as a job opportunity.

Do you believe professional chemists can improve illegal drug markets?

We have no practical or personal experience in the drug business. However, from the health perspective it should be preferable to have pure substances. This could be achieved for some drugs in general by a legally controlled drug delivery, where quality standards also have to be obeyed. Yet, as far as I know the effects of crystal meth are so severe that legalizing is certainly no option.



Hey, don't look at me, — I didn't mean to inspire any drug dealers. I'm just Aaron Paul from the hit show Breaking Bad. AMC

Bell's anti-Justin tweets chime loudly online as Beliebers defend their man

Apparently Drake Bell didn't learn his lesson the last time he started taunting Justin Bieber online, as the former Disney star is at it again, taking to Twitter to blast Bieber after his house was raided and his pal, Lil Za, was arrested for drug possession. "How much are you paying Lil Za to take the coke (rap) for you? Be a man and take responsibility. Learn to be an adult," Bell tweeted. He also called Bieber "talentless," prompting Bieber's friends and fans to strike back in defense, finding Bell's alleged phone number and address and posting it online.

Nothing plastic about Michelle's women's lib message on her 50th

"Women should have the freedom to do whatever they need to do to feel good about themselves," she says. "Right now, I don't imagine that I would go that route, but I've also learned to never say never."

Benedict's sex appeal a mystery to Sherlock producers

THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Are you surprised Benedict Cumberbatch is the hunk that Tumblr says he is? So are the producers of Sherlock, who hired him.

Sherlock showrunner Steven Moffat and producer Sue Vertue, who cast the thespian in the role, didn't believe he could be regarded as, well, sexy.

"When we first cast him, people were saying, 'You promised us a sexy one!'" remembers Vertue as part of this week's Entertainment Weekly cover story. "People weren't thinking of Benedict in that light at all."

His name also didn't help. "When people said, 'Who's playing Sherlock Holmes?' and we'd say, 'Benedict Cumberbatch,' everyone looked very vague," recalls Vertue. "Then we'd always have to spell his name."

Everyone had their doubts before the first episode aired. "For me, it is a winter show," says Cumberbatch. "It's not something you watch when you've got the dying light on the hottest day. So I was a bit despondent," he recalls.

But after the debut — and when he saw how quickly social media latched onto the BBC drama — Cumberbatch realized his life was going to change forever. "The immediate response was exciting," he says. "My name: trending, trending, trending. I didn't even know what 'trending' was before that night."

"After the first episode," added Vertue, "we never had to spell his name."

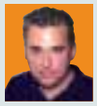
Grape stuff by candlelight



LIQUID ASSETS

Hunkering down indoors with family, food and a few bottles of wine has become a winter tradition in Canada.

While power outages may put a damper on your culinary ambitions, you can still explore new grape varieties by candlelight.

Spain's eclectic collection of berries is mostly indigenous. Though some aren't that easy to warm up to, garnacha (or grenache as it's known in France) meets most palates in the middle.

With a ripe, rounded fruit expression and, depending on the age of the vines, a bright, naturally berry sweet flavour, Spanish garnacha is a true bridge between the old and new wine worlds.

I predicted its 2014 popularity in a column earlier this month, and if you need confirmation, fill your mouth with Bodegas San Alejandro's 2010 Las Rocas Garnacha ($14.99 - $19.90).

Made in the Calatayud region in the province of Zaragoza's southwestern corner, its soothing, black-fruited body cruises to a finish of dark spice, tannin and subtle oak. Try with seasonal dishes like stew and meaty chili — if you have electricity.

Take fresh spring rolls in a fowl direction

Appetizer. Typically made with shrimp and vegetables, this version adds chicken

When paired with crunchy jicama, carrots and cucumber, the chicken shines as a spring roll filling.

Ingredients

Dipping sauce
- 1/4 cup each smooth natural peanut butter and apricot jam
- 2 tbsp each soy sauce and rice or cider vinegar
- Hot sauce, to taste

Spring rolls
- 2 oz dried bean or rice thread noodles
- 1/2 English cucumber, peeled and halved lengthwise
- 4-oz peeled jicama root
- 12 large rice-paper wrappers (8-inch round or larger)
- 1/2 cup shredded carrots
- 2 avocados, pitted and thinly sliced
- 1 lb cooked boneless, skinless chicken breast meat, pulled or cut into strips
- 12 large fresh mint leaves

1. Dipping sauce: In bowl stir together peanut butter, jam, soy sauce and vinegar. Season with hot sauce, then set aside.

2. Place noodles in bowl. Cover with hot water. Soak 5 minutes, or until softened. Drain in mesh strainer; set aside.

3. Use spoon to scrape out and discard the seeds from cucumber halves. Cut each piece into thin strips. Set aside. Cut jicama into thin slices, then cut each slice into thin matchsticks.

4. Fill bowl (at least several inches larger than the rice wrappers) with warm water. Soak 1 wrapper until just barely softened, 10 seconds. Carefully remove the rice wrapper from the water and lay flat on the counter. Place a small bundle of noodles along one edge of the wrapper. Top the noodles with a bit each of cucumber, jicama, carrots, avocado and chicken, then top with a mint leaf.

5. Roll the wrapper, starting with the filling side, folding the ends over the fillings as you roll to form a tight cylinder. Repeat with the remaining wrappers and fillings. Serve with the dipping sauce. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jones will face her final hurdle in Sochi

Curling. Winnipegger approaches Olympics with little to prove to anyone but herself

Jennifer Jones had trouble keeping the tears of joy in check after she won the right to represent Canada at the Olympic curling trials in her hometown of Winnipeg.

"I can't even describe it," she said. "You dream of it since you're a little kid."

Now comes the next challenge for the golden girl of Canadian curling — trying to meet the high expectations of fans for whom anything less than a gold medal will be a disappointment.

If it counts for anything, Jones brings more big-game experience to the Olympics than any other women's skip the country has sent, but she certainly isn't underestimating the challenge.

"It's probably one of the best Olympic fields to ever be assembled, you have so many world champions," she said.

"We know we're going to have to play as well as we can in order to make the playoffs."

Although it debuted in 1924 with a men-only tournament, curling didn't return as a medal event at the Winter Olympics until 1998, with Saskatchewan's Sandra Schmirler winning Canada's first curling gold that year in Nagano.

It was also the last gold for Canadian women, who have had to settle for two bronzes and a silver in subsequent Games.

The men have fared a little better, winning gold in 2006 and 2010 and silver at the two previous Olympics.

But Canada remains the country to beat in curling and only Switzerland can match its record of reaching the podium in every Games since 1998. And, unlike Canada, the Swiss haven't been able to bring home both men's and women's medals from every Games.

Jones, 39, has won everything else that counts in the sport, but the Olympics is something special.

"To go to the Olympics I think, as any athlete in any sport, is an incredible experience," she said in a recent interview.

Jones is a four-time Canadian champion and even when she didn't win she was still usually the top-ranked women's skip in the country, a position she's held since 2005.

Muirhead ups the ante in Vegas

The World squad is off to an impressive start at the Continental Cup curling tournament, taking a 2-1 lead over North America after Thursday's opening draw.

Reigning world champion Eve Muirhead of Scotland opened with a 12-2 rout of Winnipeg's Jennifer Jones in a battle of teams bound for the 2014 Winter Olympics in Sochi.

Muirhead stole three in the fourth end and two more in fifth to earn the full point in the team standings.

"It was a great start, we played really well and the ice conditions are fantastic," Muirhead said. "We had a really solid game out there and to get the first points on the board for Team World was good."

The teams will meet again, possibly this week and certainly in Sochi.

"You forget that Sochi is only a couple of weeks away and Jennifer's going to be there but it doesn't really cross your mind," Muirhead said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Legendary NFL quarterback and current Broncos executive vice-president John Elway expects to see Peyton Manning in the NFL next year.

Elway on Manning retirement: QB still young, playing well

NFL playoffs. Broncos legend says he'll meet with star after playoffs to discuss his future

John Elway doesn't see Peyton Manning riding off into that orange Rocky Mountain sunset the way Elway did 15 years ago if the Denver Broncos quarterback caps his record-setting season with a second Super Bowl ring.

Elway's body was breaking down, having been sacked 516 times — 244 more than Manning has been in about the same number of games.

"I still think he's young and he's playing well," Elway, now the Broncos' executive vice-president, said Thursday of his quarterback, who's coming off his best statistical season just two years removed from neck problems that weakened his throwing arm. "That's going to come down to Peyton. It's going to come down to what he wants to do."

Manning has given no indication that he's anywhere near calling it quits at age 37, although he has dropped phrases lately like "light at the end of the tunnel" when talking about his career.

Elway takes that to mean Manning knows that whenever he does walk away, these are the days he'll look back on.

Manning is preparing to lead the Broncos (14-3) against Tom Brady and the New England Patriots (13-4) Sunday in the AFC championship.

Elway said he'll meet with Manning after the season to talk about his future. But the four-time MVP, who will likely have No. 5 soon, certainly doesn't seem to be wringing the last Sundays out of his battered body like Elway was doing back in 1998. After all, Manning has thrown for 97 touchdowns in his two seasons in Denver, including an NFL-record 55 this season.

"When you leave this game, you want to leave it on your last leg and try not to leave anything on the table," said Elway.

The curse of McDaniels

For a brief time, Josh McDaniels was a celebrity in Denver and he played the part with gusto — running to the corner of the stadium after his first signature win and pumping his fists at the crowd to celebrate.

The fun ended almost as quickly as it began.

And less than five years after that big win over New England vaulted the Broncos to an unexpected 5-0 record, the name "Josh McDaniels" stirs up far more angst and anger in Denver than those of the men he beat that day, Bill Belichick and Tom Brady.

"I ain't got nothing to say about him," says Broncos defensive lineman Robert Ayers, a first-round draft pick during the two-year McDaniels era that fans would love to forget.

The man who alienated fans and left the franchise holding the bag on the Tim Tebow experiment returns Sunday to try to deliver another dagger to Denver.

Freestyle skiing. Del Bosco's Sochi status still up in the air despite win

Chris Del Bosco entered this week's World Cup skicross competitions in France knowing that a podium appearance would probably lock up a spot on the Canadian team for the Winter Olympics.

He won gold Thursday in a weather-hampered event at Val Thorens, but he likely needs to do more to book his ticket to Sochi.

The race was halted due to high winds and Del Bosco was given the victory based on his qualification results and win in his first heat. However, he'll need to return to the podium Friday to really strengthen his chances for inclusion on the Sochi roster.

"I definitely felt like I could have kept going; it was kind of frustrating because you want to win by winning the final but it was out of my control," Del Bosco said in a release. "There's not really any more I could have done.

"It was getting down to crunch time and I knew what I needed to do. I needed to podium. Sochi qualification is kind of a grey area. I don't really know how that works — I'm going to just regroup here and get ready to give 'er again tomorrow."

NHL. After squandering 3-0 lead, Subban comes through to put Canadiens on top for good in overtime

Carey Price made 40 saves and P.K. Subban scored the overtime winner as the Montreal Canadiens defeated the Ottawa Senators 5-4 Thursday night.

Subban scored 23 seconds into the extra period as his shot trickled through Craig Anderson's legs.

Tomas Plekanec, Max Pacioretty and David Desharnais also scored for the Canadiens (27-16-5), who defeated the Senators for the first time this season (1-2-0).

Clarke MacArthur, Erik Karlsson, Bobby Ryan and Kyle Turris scored for Ottawa (21-18-9). Anderson stopped 18 shots.

Trailing 4-3, the Canadiens caught a break on the tying goal midway through the third. Plekanec broke in alone and while Anderson made the initial save, defenceman Jared Cowen watched in horror as the puck went in off his skate.

Two goals in 84 seconds late in the second allowed Ottawa to grab its first lead of the game.

Trailing 3-2 to start the second, Ottawa outshot the Canadiens 19-10 in the second and tied the game on the 37th shot as Ryan beat Price with a wrist shot. Minutes earlier Price had made outstanding saves on Ryan and Mark Stone.

The Canadiens got off to a quick start taking a 3-0 lead early in the first, but with two late first-period goals the Senators were able to make a game of it.

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Your mind will be moving fast over the next few days as you look to make your ideas pay. But don't make any decisions until after the Sun changes signs on the 20th. Only then will the way forward be clear.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Something will happen today that annoys you. But when you think about it, you will realize that it makes no difference to your plans. Carry on with what you were going to do.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Don't listen to those who say you are too far out with your ideas for your own good. They may think you are crazy but it all makes perfect sense to you, and that's what matters.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
You should make yourself known to important people over the next 24 hours. People in positions of authority will be open to your ideas and before you know it, you could find yourself promoted.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Today's Mercury-Uranus link will help you to see things way ahead of everyone else. However, other aspects warn that what you see over the weekend may be misleading, so don't get carried away.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
According to the planets, you are too close to a project and need to step back a bit if you are to get a realistic view of how you are doing — and what you need to do next.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
You don't have to make an issue of every challenge. You will progress quicker if you ignore whatever does not take you closer to your goals.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
Try not to make decisions for loved ones because, no matter how well intentioned, they are sure to resent it. Let them learn from their own mistakes and be there to help them up off the floor if they need it.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
Someone you meet today will open your eyes to new possibilities. But that does not mean you should drop what you are doing and head off in a new direction. Wait for the Sun to change signs on Monday before making decisions.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
The planets warn you could easily be fooled by someone who knows how to play on your insecurities. Don't fall for their lies. If you do, you will have only yourself to blame.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
The best way to help yourself today is to help others. With mind planet Mercury linked nicely to your ruler Uranus, you have a knack for knowing what those around you need.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
Sometimes things go wrong for a reason and sometimes for no reason at all. What goes wrong today will most likely fall in the latter category but it's really no big deal. Come Monday you will have forgotten all about it.
